Behind her, several other children are playing on a large wooden structure that resembles a climbing frame or a set of stairs. One child is standing on a high platform, another is sitting on a ledge, and others are scattered around the base of the structure. The background shows more children and the open space of the playground.

Homecoming

Sunset High School's 11th annual Homecoming was held October 8. Although the Apollos were defeated by Parkrose, they maintained spirit throughout the event. The climax of the evening was the announcement of the 1971 Homecoming Queen, Karen Smith. At the after-game dance, themed "Everyday People", the students danced to the sounds of "Skiffle."

Girls' League Activities

"Sun Country" was chosen as the theme of this year's transfer party, held on October 20, in the Sunset student center. This annual event is designed for new and old students to get acquainted.

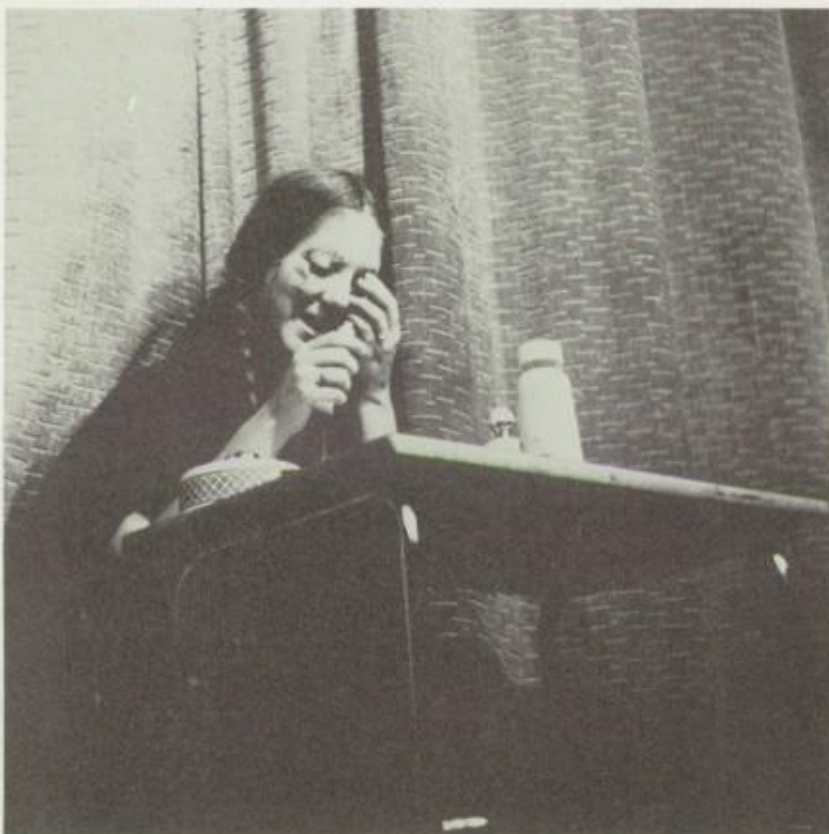

Sophomore girls had a chance to get acquainted with senior girls and Sunset's Girls' League at the Big-Little Sister tea on September 22, in the auditorium. Seniors entertained the underclassmen with skits and singing, refreshments were served in the cafeteria.

Sports Night

Sports Night for Sunset students and the community is held every Wednesday night from 7-9 p.m. Activities feature: basketball, weight lifting and wrestling. Mr. Greg Smith has been the supervisor of this activity for the last three years.

Summertree

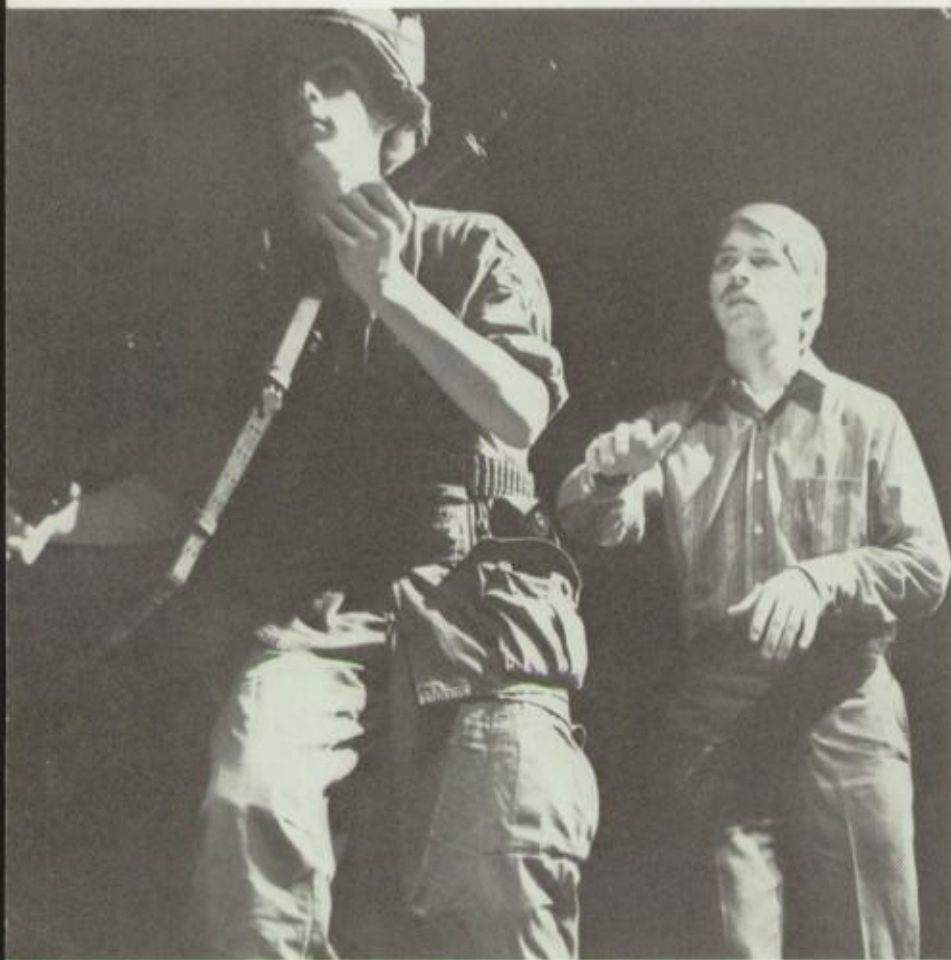

"Summertree," Sunset's first drama production of the year was presented in the school auditorium November 19 and 20.

It is the story of a young man who is confronted with the pressures of home life, the changing of his moral values, the draft, and all the controversy with the Viet Nam war. The play was directed by Mr. James Shaffer. Student directors were Janet Mason and Kristin Kelly.

The scene was set with large trees and a tilted platform. The play featured precise timing for the lighting sequences, all prepared by the stage crew.

Special Assemblies

Sunset students were offered a variety of entertainment within the special assembly program. Assemblies ranged from a rock group to a political figure.

Senator Bob Packwood gave a speech on what he felt were the five vital aspects of leadership. In another student assembly, Secretary of State Clay Meyers discussed voting.

"Thanks America," featured folklore of Korea, dancing and singing.

Among musical groups who entertained at Sunset this year are: the New Hope Singers and Dust. Sunset musicians, Cam Newton and Howard Friedman entertained at a senior assembly.

Highlights of an original assembly run completely by computers was a power failure.

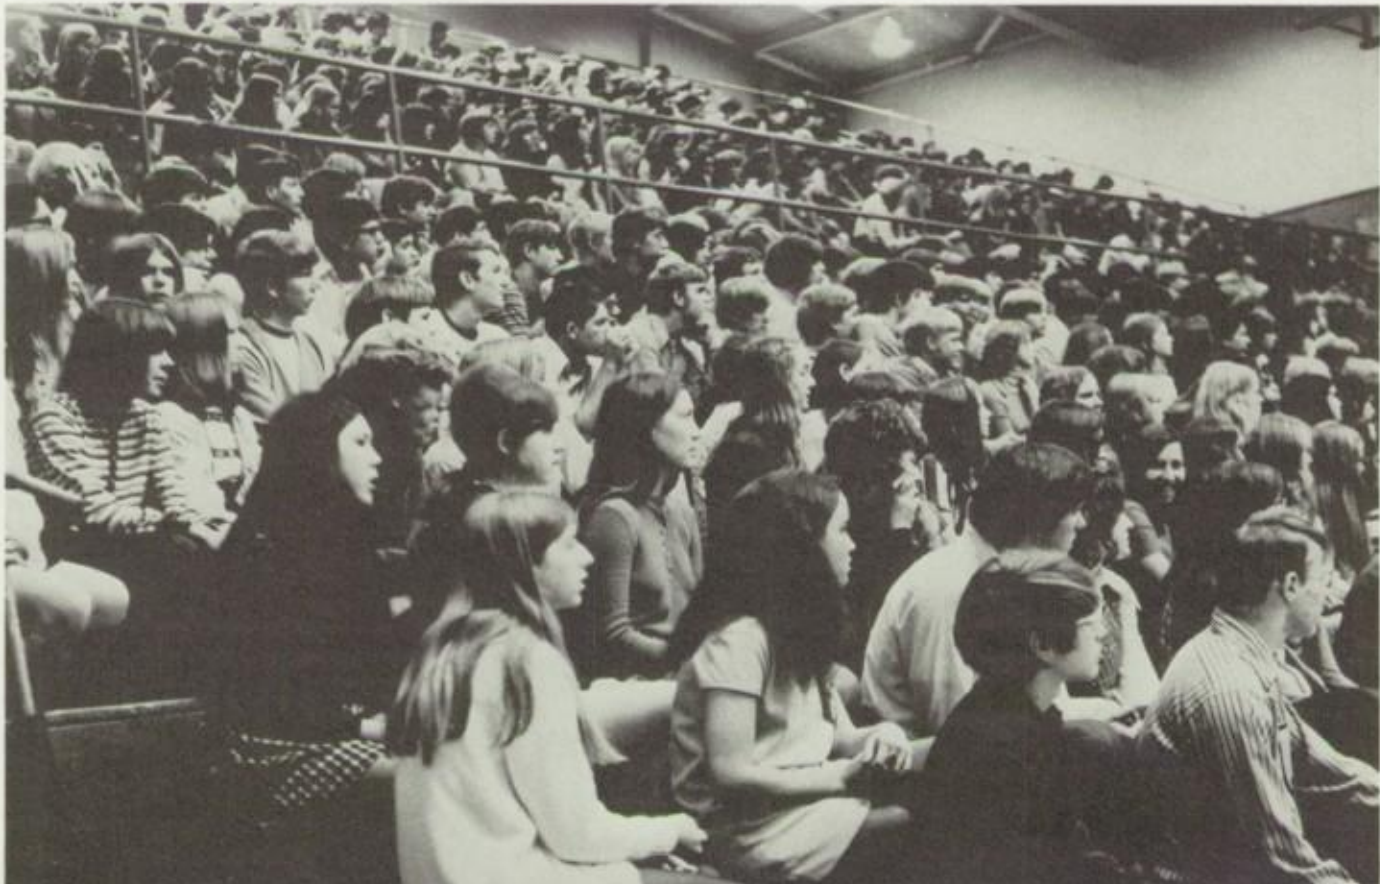

Entertainment at the pep assemblies ranged from the Apollo gymnastics team performing to a faculty skit featuring Mr. Joe Simon, Apollo, who finally conquered Mount Metro.

Christmas Semi-Formal

'Twas the night of December 11, 1971, and all through the gym 150 couples danced to the sound of Family Tradition at the annual Christmas Semi-Formal. Trees and colorful lights accentuated the theme "Crystalized Moonbeams." Judy Bishop was crowned Snowball queen.

Metro Congress

The Metropolitan Congress of World Affairs is a class involving interested students in the world of politics and foreign affairs. The 25 participating Sunset students meet every Thursday night. This year the class is actively involved in the Mock Democratic Convention which was staged at the Memorial Coliseum. Mr. William Pressly is advisor of the Sunset contingent.

Lowell Greathouse informs students on convention tactics.

Great Decisions

Again this year Sunset students have attended the Great Decisions series. This nine-week forum on world problems is held every Thursday night at the Reedville Presbyterian Church and attracts students from many high schools and colleges as well as interested adults. The program enables the participants to hear experts speak on topics of current interest. After the formal presentation, the students break up into groups to discuss in depth the ideas presented. Young people and older members of the community therefore experience an interreaction of ideas which helps to "build a better bridge" over the gap.

Tom Gaskill listens as Sunset teacher Tom Marsh explains issues stated in talk on Russia.

Margaret Frimoth and Matt Larson listen to group discussion of Russia at Great Decisions meeting.

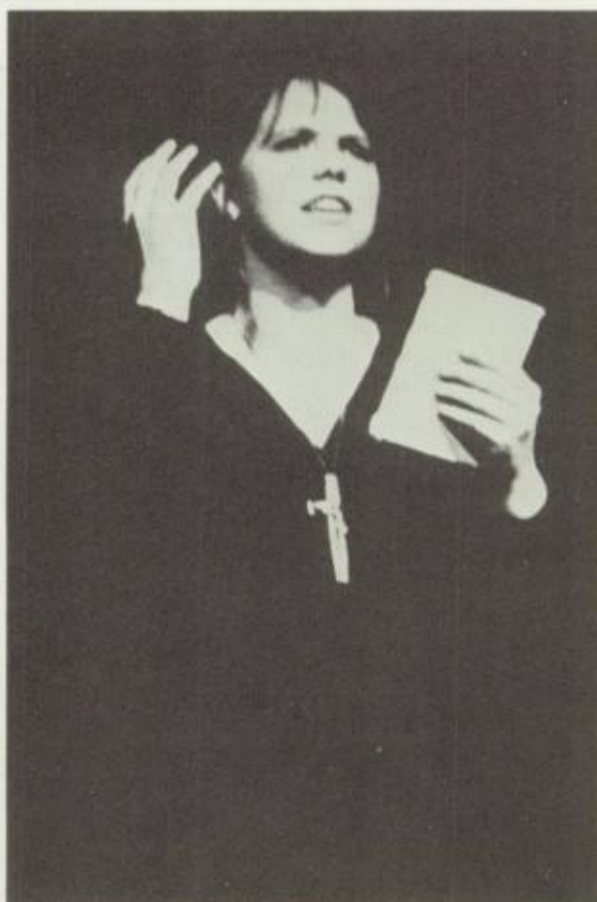

Repertory Theater

A new dimension in drama, The Repertory Theater, was presented at Sunset this year. Members of the third year drama class undertook the presentation of three plays of this style: "Theater of the Soul" "Antigone," and "Spoon River Anthology."

The repertory technique involves the same 11 cast members taking parts in all productions. This means more intense work for the actors: they have to learn more lines and assume several different character personalities.

Characterization in the collection of poems by Edgar Lee Masters, called "Spoon River Anthology" was especially difficult for the third year students.

Foreign Exchange Students

Sunset students have had the opportunity to be exposed to many foreign students this year. Sunset's foreign students program has had a good year. The two programs A.F.S., (American Field Service) and Y.F.U. (Youth for Understanding), have been active and have sponsored a number of students. The students who are sponsored by Y.F.U. are Sonja Valovis, Davor Zavisec and Renato Critter. A.F.S. student is Jorge Mota.

Janitors of Sunset are concerned with the maintenance of the building. Head janitor, Harold Schell and his wife, the school matron, have both been at Sunset since July of 1959. The night shift foreman is Dale Helmrix.

Sunset's kitchen crew is made up of one head cook, Alice Smith, and her eleven "cookies." Assisted by student help, their job is to prepare our menus required by government, run the snack bar and to cook at various school banquets.

Sunset's Fine Arts Department presented their second dramatic production of the year, "The Music Man," on March 15-18.

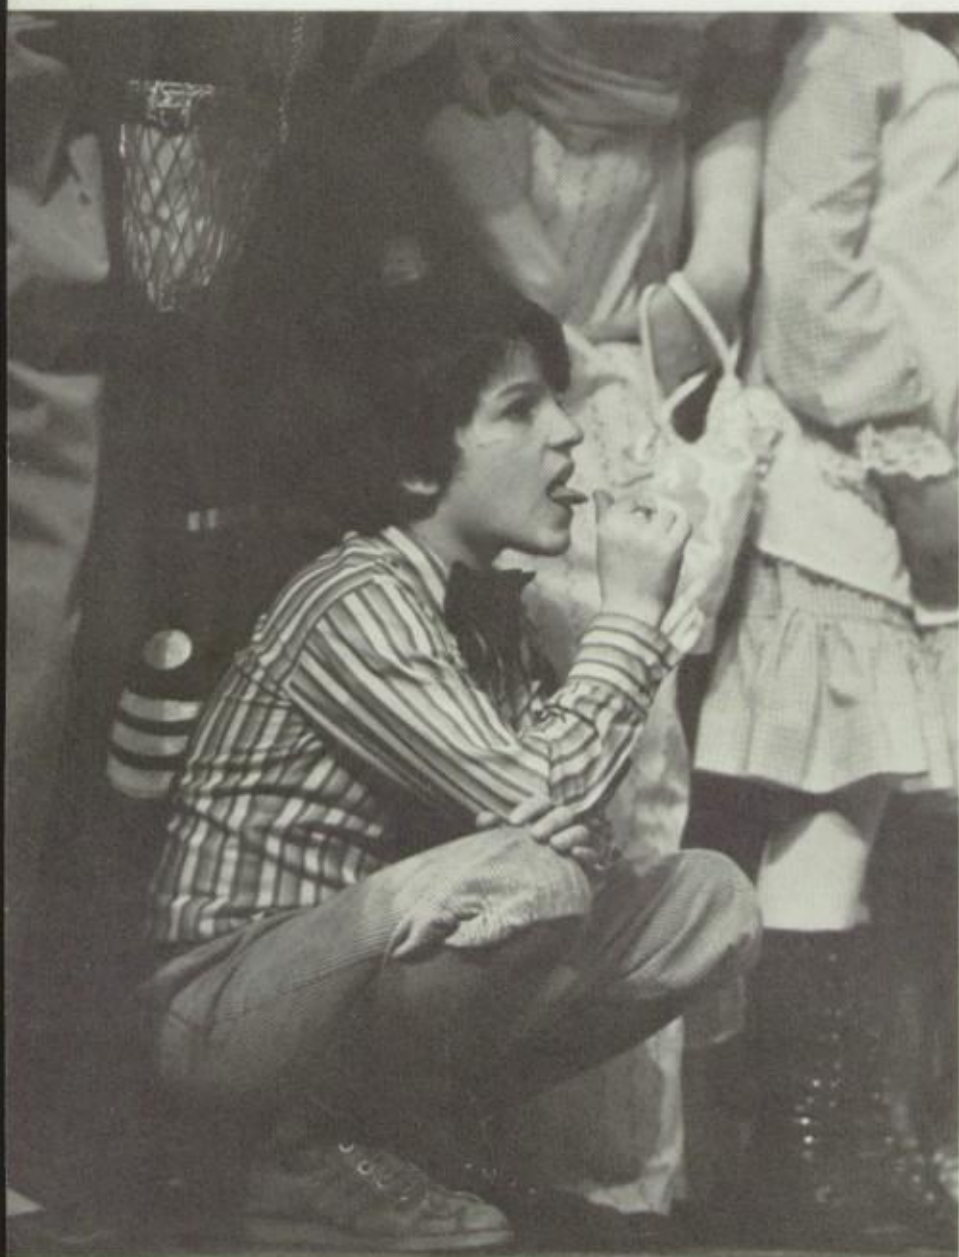

The play, under the direction of Mr. James Shaffer, centers around a traveling salesman, Professor Harold Hill, who stops off in the town of River City, Iowa, in an attempt to fleece local citizens out of their cash by pretending to be a well-known authority on boys' bands.

Leads for this production were senior Dave Dale, who portrays Professor Harold Hill, and senior Gretchen Prehn who plays the part of Marion Paroo.

Vocal director was Mr. Gary Gadwood; instrumental director was Mr. Dell Herreid, assisted by Miss Marlene Majovski. Assistant to the director was Mrs. Kathy Meek.

High Q Team

Practice for Sunset's High Q team began in October. The team practices twice a week to prepare for debates which stress quick recall and fast reaction. The team is chosen by competition against other students. Don Geisler and Eric Noji are returning members from Sunset's High Q team. The Apollo's 1971 team reached the National Tournament in Minnesota after taking the regional tournament in Oregon. This year's High Q team is Eric Noji, Don Geisler, Phil Keisling, Dave Foster, and alternate Tom Bosworth.

Varsity Football

The Apollo's win-loss record was not very impressive. They all showed great effort and spirit. The new varsity coach from Kelso, Washington, Pete Hopkins, felt that the 1971-72 football season was a year for laying down foundations for the future football program.

Summarizing the season, Hopkins said, "We had great improvement in many players as the season progressed. They stayed with it; there was no letting down."

The student body is proud of the seniors who contributed their last year to football and he hopes to see the players with this year's experience return next year.

Swimming

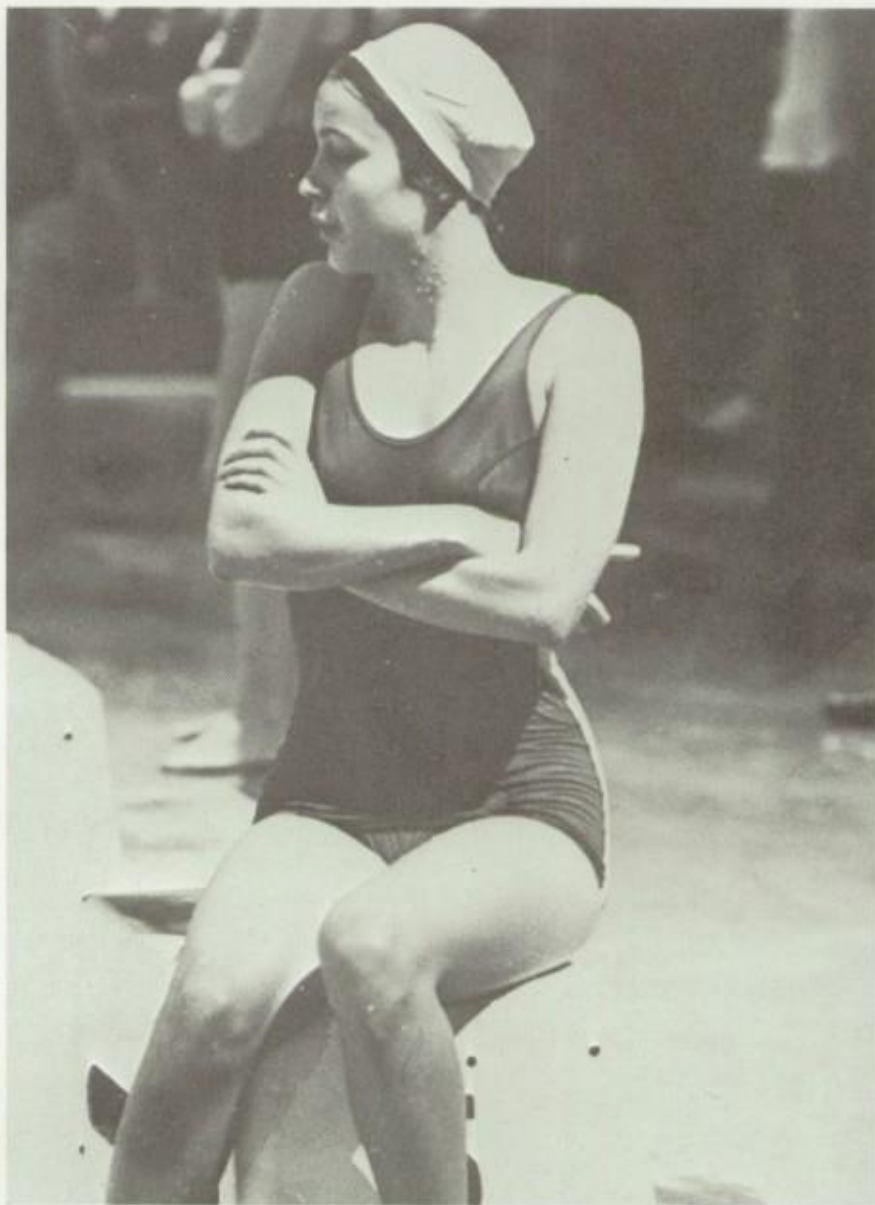

This year under the coaching of Mike Carey, Sunset's swim team did an outstanding job in their league and State competition.

The boys team took first in the Metro League and second in the State meet in Eugene. The boys relay team made a fine performance at State by breaking the record for the 400 yd. free-style. The team also placed first in the 400, 200, 100 and 50 yd. free-style events. Also second in the 200 yd. back-stroke and 200 yd. individual medley. Diver Mark Nylund placed second in the Metro-League and seventh in State.

Competing in dual meets, the varsity won four and lost three.

Soccer

This year the soccer team placed second in the Metro League play-offs and fourth in State competition. Coached by Jacques Bonfiglio and Rollie Ruehlman, the team achieved many victories in their second season at Sunset.

Tough competition was provided when the Apollos faced Catlin Gable and Bishop Dagwell. This year the soccer team was backed by the skills of many outstanding players, such as foreign exchange student Jorge Mota, Cory Colburn, Graham Deacon and many others.

Varsity Basketball

Coach John Wyttenberg's basketball team made a fine showing this year after a sluggish start in pre-season games. The reason behind the success of the team was due largely to the philosophy on coaching. "At Sunset, we never talk of winning; we talk of doing our best." And they did their best, rolling over other teams with increasing strength as they rose to their height. Winning goes hand-in-hand with the "doing our best" philosophy, as the team record shows.

Wyttenberg's group approach to coaching also has a major impact on the performance of the team. He explains that seeing what works best for one person leads to better understanding between player and coach, which in turn leads to an improved rapport between the coach and the whole team.

State Tournament

The Sunset Apollos placed third in the state 1972 AAA basketball tournament at the Memorial Coliseum in Portland during spring vacation. After annihilating incumbent state champion Benson in the quarterfinals, Sunset's hopes of playing in the finals were spoiled when a one point loss to Baker was sustained on a lucky shot by the Bulldog's center. In spite of the upset, the Apollos later romped on to stun Klamath Falls and clinch the third place title, with senior Richard Mollerup making first all-tourney team.

J.V. Basketball

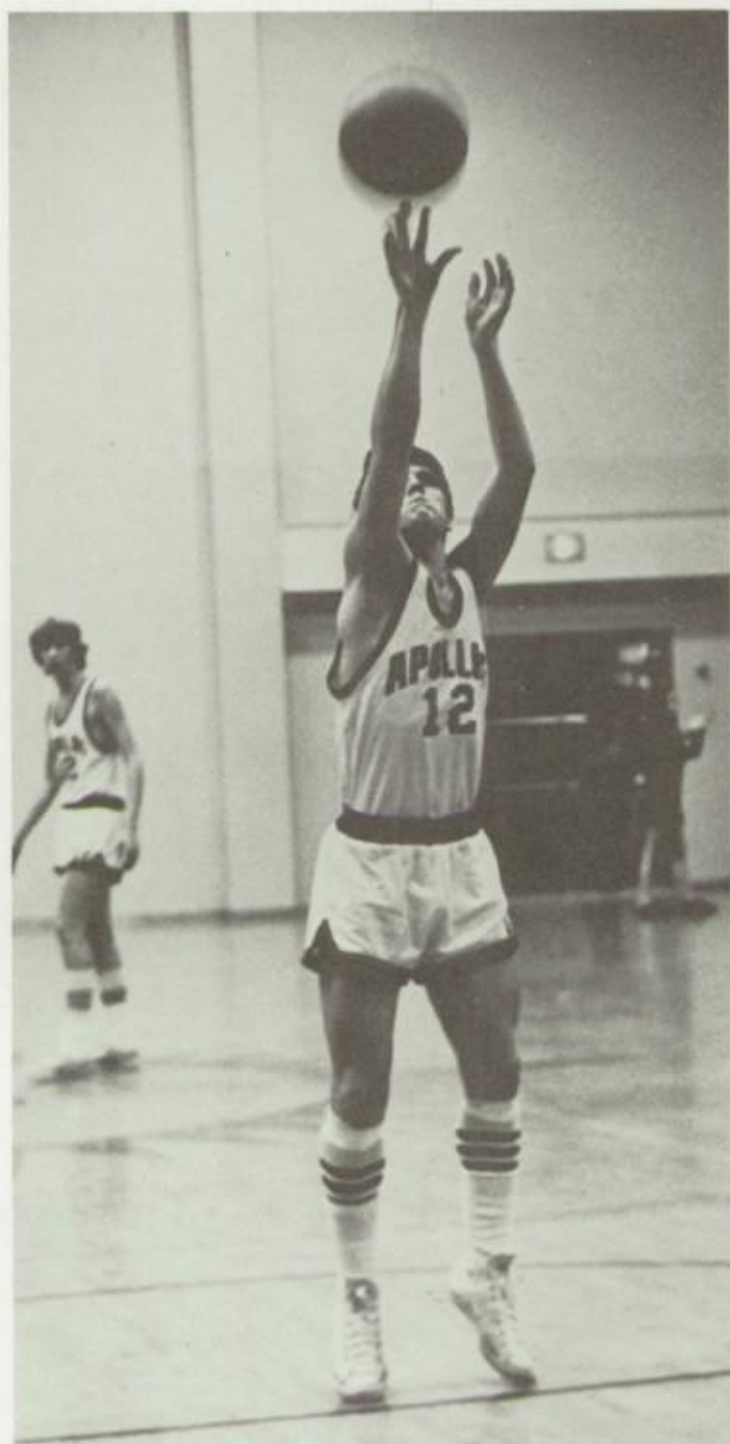

Sunset's 1971-72 junior varsity basketball team is made up mostly of juniors, with four sophomores rounding out the twelve member squad. The team has been described as being very cohesive and able to play well together, giving them good overall depth. The desire to win and their pride in a strong aggressive defense has made them a strong team, according to coach Joe Simon.

Coach Simon feels that defense is a major concern in his coaching philosophy. He said that if the team can master this phase of basketball, then they can be successful in their game efforts.

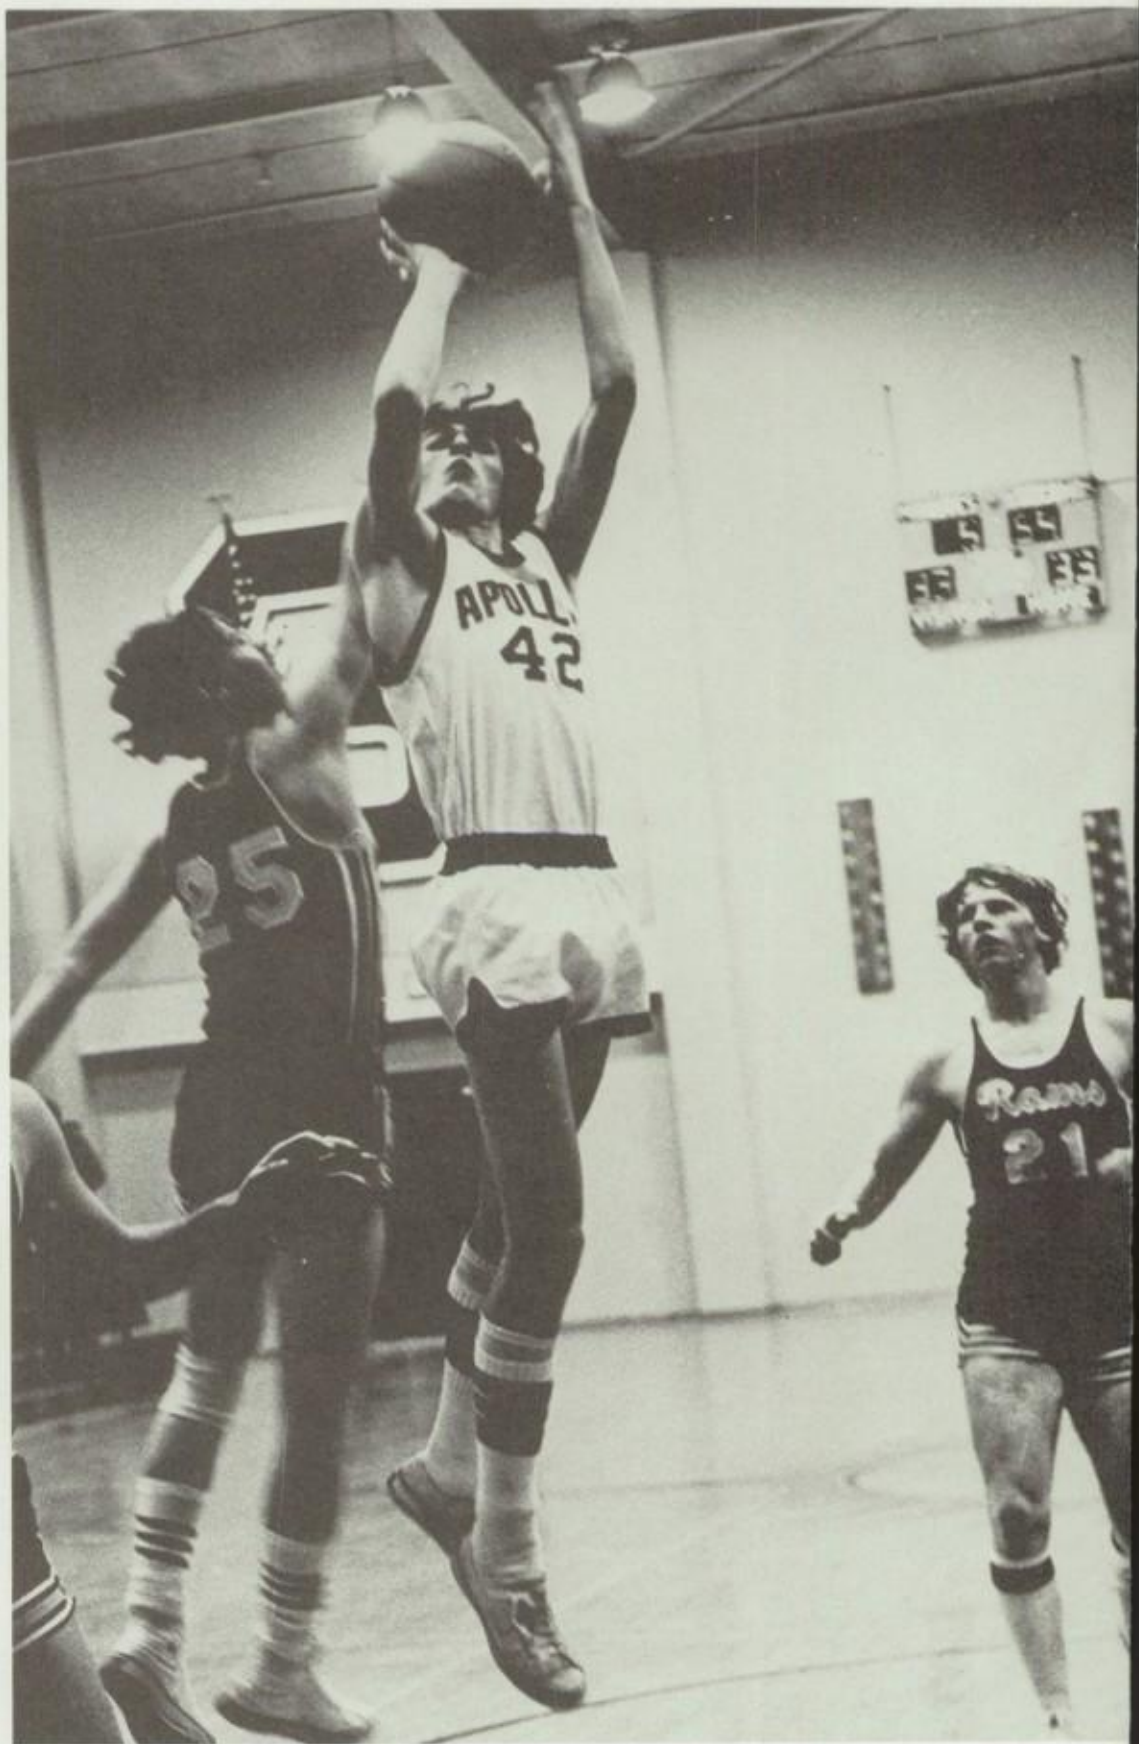

The junior varsity, varsity, and sophomore basketball teams at Sunset operate under the same program and are continually sharing in practice time and coaching skills.

Sophomore Basketball

Sunset's sophomore basketball team, coached by Bill Broderick, had quickness and strength under the boards, making defense their strong point all season. The team members also saw a marked improvement in their shooting during the 1971-72 season. Towards the end of the season they were making about fifty percent of their field shots, compared with thirty-three percent at the start of the season. This improvement was a result of the one-half hour a day shooting practice.

The aggressiveness of the team improved with every game, and because of this, the tempo of the whole game picked up. The team's fast break, the transition between offense and defense, and their full court press greatly improved. Coach Broderick attributed much of this success to the desire and speed of the team members.

Rifle Team

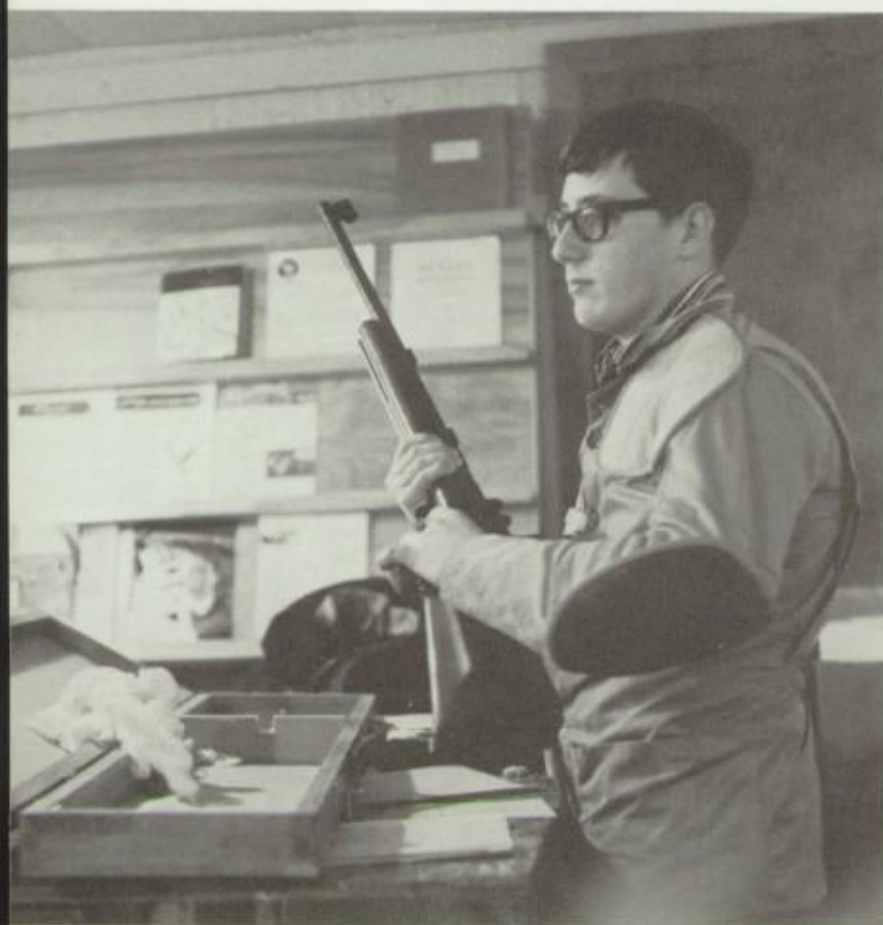

The rifle team, coached by Carl Husen, ended the 1972 season with four wins and four losses. The greatest obstacle the team had to overcome was lack of experience; there were only two returning shooters from last year's team.

Coach Husen feels that this year's sophomores will give us high hope for the next two years.

To have a good shooting score, rifle team members must have an honest desire to shoot well, learn the proper shooting positions, and practice.

Fall Student Council

I hope that this Student Council will be remembered for its many successful endeavors. This council has created a much-needed transition to student government at Sunset. Very simply, through the efforts of all the students that volunteered their time to help the student body through Student Council, student government has become a more COMPLETE form of student representation.

There is no way I can summarize what experience, friendship, and good fortune I received from the others associated with Student Council. In retrospect, those in student government met the challenges that confronted them. This has made for their success as a council, and as individuals.

I would like to thank the students, staff, and community members of Sunset that have been so willing to help me this year.

Thank you

Sincerely,

Lowell Greathouse

Hope and dedication are the forces that must drive us to attain our goals. I have felt the hope and seen the dedication of our former council, and I hope that I will be able to transfer that feeling from me to my council and then in turn to the student body.

This year for the first time, Sunset students elected a social planning council. This council was designed and established during the constitutional revision. Its job is to plan and coordinate dances and other social activities for benefit of students.

Rally

Spirit is what characterizes this year's rally squad. They have spent time organizing pep assemblies, creating new cheers and dances, and designing decorative locker signs. Most of all, rally members have promoted spirit among the students to get support for the Apollo teams.

The 1971-72 varsity rally members are: seniors Pam Covey, Karen Smith, Kay Knepper and Georgie Lindell. Junior members are Debbie Moren and Lisa Dorn. Male rally members include Jim Melcher, Curtis Winn, Kurt Kreiger, Brian Bateman and Mark Stroud.

Fire Squad

Fire squad was designed to help protect the student body and faculty against the threat of fire by getting them out of the building as fast as possible. The squad is made up of a large number of Sunset students led by fire chief Steve Shird and advised by Mr. LeRoy Schroeder. The group holds a fire drill once a month, weather permitting, and analyses evacuation procedure.

Sunflares

Sunflares is Sunset's enthusiastic dance team made up of 24 junior and senior girls. The girls entertain at all Apollo home football and basketball games and at pep assemblies.

To make money, Sunflares held a candy sale and at Christmas entered a window painting contest.

This year Sunflares were first in dance competition in Albany's dance and drill team competition. They will dance in the 1972 Rose Festival Parade.

Committee members also assisted Girls' League with events such as the Christmas dance.

Girls' League

Girls' League is a service club to both the school and the community; all girls at Sunset are members. This year their goal was to try and get a more unified student body. As a result, the involvement with the students increased almost 100%. Activities put on this year were: Big and Little Sister Tea, the Transfer Party, the Christmas Semi, and the Doernbecker Service project.

In January 1972, Girls' League was deactivated in favor of a co-educational student activity organization.

NFL

The National Forensic League is a club for high school students who enjoy speaking before groups of people and in contests. The speech team is coached by Mr. Jim Galbraith and competes throughout the state against many schools.

Members have a wide variety of topics from which to choose. These include everything from debating about ideas on issues of importance, to after-dinner speaking, to humorous interpretive reading.

French Club

All French students are eligible to join Sunset's French Club, which is advised by Mrs. Mary Bray. The group's goal is to learn more about French culture. Main events each year include the French dinner, a Mardi Gras or field trip, and a luncheon.

AFS

The American Field Service arranges for foreign exchange students to study in America and for American students to go abroad.

The student body makes it all possible by buying licorice at lunch and games, and also by participating in the annual AFS Tag Day to earn the $850 dollars it takes to bring a student to Sunset.

The National Interest Affairs committee was formed, under the chairmanship of Ana Malinow, to help students get involved in community affairs.

During the course of the year, the committee worked on registering voters and passing the cigarette tax measure.

Spanish Club

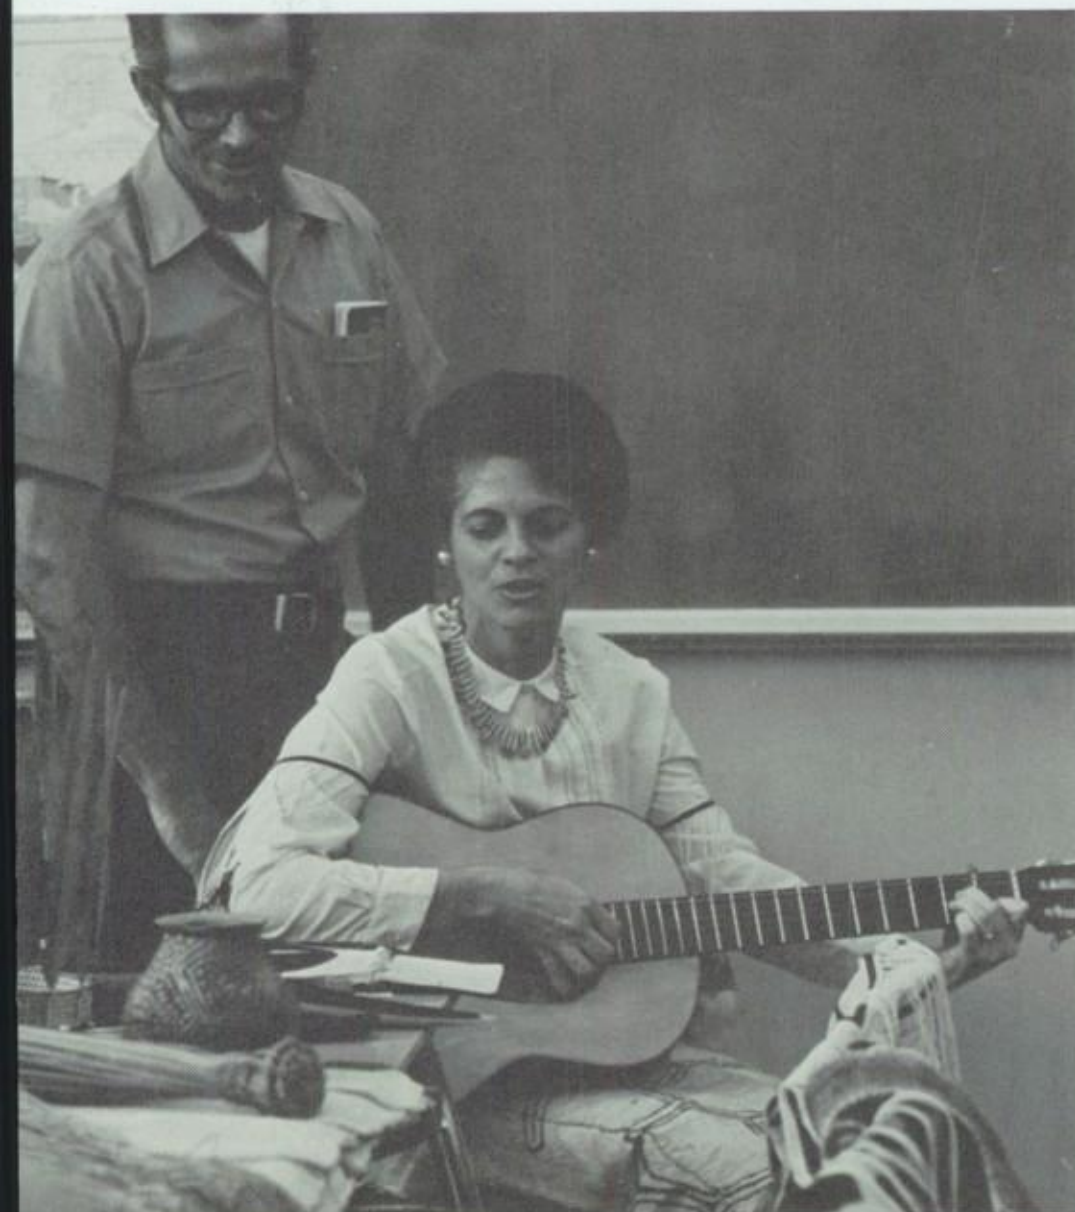

Students who enjoy studying Spanish and want to make it even more interesting are offered the chance to join Spanish club.

The club was active with varied projects this year. The members held a dinner at Christmas for the student body in honor of a group of Costa Rican foreign exchange students.

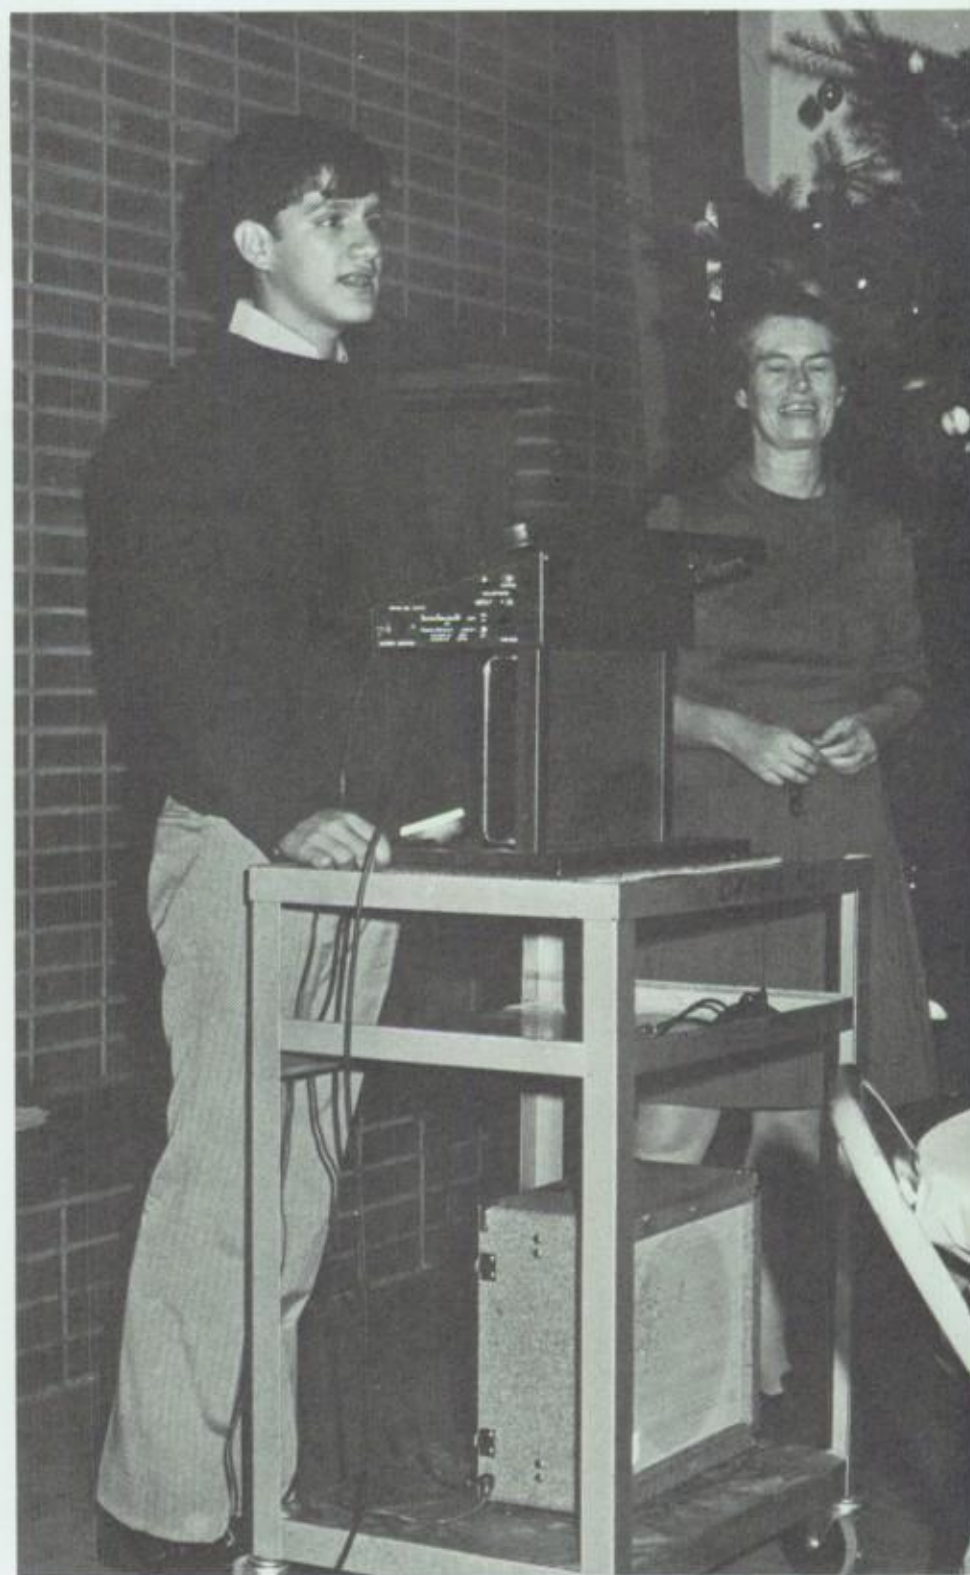

A group of missionaries from Peru gave a presentation before the club. An ice skating party in honor of a second group of Costa Rican students was also on the Spanish club agenda.

Administration

Tones of mustard and orange dominate decor in Sunset's new administration wing in A corridor. In January, administrators and their secretaries moved into the new complex, which features sliding glass doors to a tree-filled courtyard.

Sunset principal George Erickson came to District 48 in 1953 as Beaverton high school principal. This is Mr. Erickson's fifth year as Sunset's chief administrator. He served as president of the Oregon Association of Secondary School Administrators in 1971-72 and was secondary chairman of a seven-state organization, the NW Association of Secondary and Higher Schools. 1972 is Mr. John Marsh's third year as curriculum vice principal and his ninth year on the Sunset staff. Previously he was a cross-country and football coach as well as a physical education teacher. Duties of the curriculum vice-principal include program planning, teacher supervision, and budget preparation.

Among areas supervised by administrative vice-principal Ken Scheet are student behavior, building functions and student body finances. This is Mr. Scheet's first year as administrative vice-principal; formerly he was a math teacher and counselor here.

Mrs. Pearl Young, vice principal of pupil personnel services, came to Sunset in 1961 as dean of girls. She is the past president of the Oregon Personnel and Guidance Association and of the Oregon Assoc. of Women Deans and Counselors.

Counselors

Sunset's full-time counseling staff receives student assignments on an alphabetical basis. From the counselors' new offices in corridor G, tests are administered and interpreted, attendance procedures are coordinated, students are assisted in assessing educational needs and understanding himself, and forecasting is done for post high school work or job experiences.

Media Center

The year 1972 marks the opening of Sunset High School's new media center—a facility which provides Sunset students with one of the most modern in Oregon. The primary purpose of a media center is to bring together in one area all types of instructional materials such as books, periodicals, tapes and records for students to use in getting their high school education.

Sunset's media center has many interesting features. Students and staff worked together in developing ideas for the new media center. It is designed especially to meet the needs of Sunset High School students and teachers in putting the instructional program into action.

The primary goal of the Social Studies department is the development of self realization, to the highest degree, in each student. A wide variety of techniques (simulations, group discussions, lectures) and both print and non-print teaching materials require the student to find, analyze, and weigh evidence to reach conclusions. The department encouraged students to pursue their interests in a variety of areas to develop their skills, and to further their interests or concerns to gain personal insight and awareness. As a result of encouraging student interaction in and outside the classroom, it is hoped the students will be able to develop the skills necessary to participate in a democratic society.

Class of '74

Sophomore class officers instigated a variety of new class concepts as well as carrying out their traditional duties.

The sophomores sponsored an after-game dance and planned regular meetings throughout the year.

New ideas initiated included a canned food drive and a meeting with all class councils to talk over common concerns. The sophomores were also key people behind the idea of forming one large school council for next year.

Fall term officers include, from left; V. Pres. Lisa McKinnon, Treas. Gayle Fitzpatrick, Sect'y. Gail Hope and Pres. Allen Chino.

never slip us by.*
